*It is not the critic who counts, not the man who points out how the strong man stumbled, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better.
The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena: whose face is marred by the dust and sweat and blood;
who strives valiantly; who errs and comes short again and again... who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions and spends himself in a worthy cause;
who, at the best,
knows in the end the triumph of high achievement; and who,
at the worst; if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.*

-- Theodore Roosevelt

“These are the days
you'll remember.
Never before and never since, I promise, will
the whole world be warm as this.”

-- 10,000 Maniacs

REFLECTIONS
PORTRAITS

On the following pages we present a poem originally presented in the 1983 Cayugan. It was written by Ilana Krop, a 1983 Ithaca College Graduate. Her reflections of her senior year still seem appropriate 10 years later.

We've written our last paper.
We've taken our last exam.
We've pulled our last 'all-nighter.'
And finally, we're through.

And the days passed, with those unfamiliar faces becoming more recognizable, and some a very important part of my life. I remember looking at my best friends and wondering, "Was there a time when I didn't know you?" And year by year the faces of those people whom I called "best friends" may have changed, but not the happiness that being with them brought me, nor the memories of the good and bad times, the up and down times, the crazy and sane times, that being with them helped to see me through.

I remember the first couple days of every semester... syllabus after syllabus of assignments, class requirements, and so many books and wondering if I would ever be able to keep up. And I remember the promises I made to myself every winter and summer breaks. "Next semester, I won't get behind." But inevitably, after two weeks of school I seemed three weeks behind, never feeling fully caught up until I left class the last day of the semester.

I remember weekends, those needed weekends, when "Thank God It's Friday" took on new meaning. Downtown looked different on weekends, with people filling the sidewalks and blends of music coming through every door.

And I remember returning home...home.
 How different it looked than I remembered before I left for college. It was no longer a place I lived, but rather the place I visited, and as the years went by, I came to realize that home really wasn't one place, but rather a feeling I carried around with me.
 Wherever I chose to be, that was my home.

But, as there is an ending, there is a new beginning, and I take a deep breath to face my future. For some of us, it's more school. For some, it's a job. For others, it's beginning to share our lives with that one person with whom we wish to live. But no matter what we have chosen for ourselves, we take with us a strength that being here has given us. And though we'll always have those good and bad times, those up and down times, those crazy and sane times, we also have a new confidence in ourselves that says, "You can do it." After all, my friends, the best is yet to come.

around the world on this marvellous
expedition called life, I believe you will come to expand your desire to protect.”
